

KARL H. NIEBYL Economics

Institute of Technology, Hannover; University of Paris; University of Berlin; University of Frankfurt, M.A.; London School of Economics; University of Wisconsin, Ph.D. Positions in banking and steel business; research London School of Economics, 1933-1934; Research Fellow, University of Wisconsin, 1934-1935; Research Assistant, University of Wisconsin, 1935-1936; Instructor in Economics, Carleton College, 1936-1938; Assistant Professor of Economics, Carleton College, 1938-1940; Advisor on Monetary and Fiscal Policies, Advisory Commission to the Council on National Defense, Consumer Division, Washington, D. C., 1940-1941; Associate Professor of Economics and chairman of Graduate Department of Economics, Tulane University, 1941-1943; overseas service with U.S. Navy, 1944-1945; Professor of Economics, University of Texas, summer 1946.

Editor of Review and Forecast, Chicago, 1943-1944; Author: Studies in the Classical Theories of Money, articles in: Harvard Quarterly Journal of Economics, American Economics Review, Journal of the Philosophy of Science, Science and Society, Southwestern Social Science Quarterly, The University Review, Schmollers Jahrbuch, Journal of Capital Management, Ekonomist. Black Mountain College since 1946.

MARY CAROLINE
RICHARDS English

Reed College, A.B.; University of California, M.A., Ph.D. Positions at University of California, 1938-1942; Central Washington College of Education, 1943; University of Chicago, 1945.

Black Mountain College since 1945.

THEODORE
RONDTHALER History

University of North Carolina, A.B.; Princeton University, M.A.

Positions as Instructor in English, University of North Carolina, 1920-1921; Reading Fellow, Princeton University, 1922-1923; Head of English Department, Hun School, Princeton, 1923-1924; Head of Latin Department, Salem College, Winston-Salem, 1925-1927; Teacher of History and Principal, Clemmons Consolidated School, Forsyth County System, North Carolina, 1929-1944.

Black Mountain College since 1945.